REGISTRAR RELEASES ENROLLMENT FIGURES

Enrollment Soars; Increases By 234

by Roberta Gabrys

Faces, faces everywhere and nary a place to sit. To the complete bewilderment of the old students and to the complete satisfaction of the school administration, the student body has increased considerably. There are no longer enough chairs, coat hangers, or ash trays to go around.

A Champ Is In Our Midst

John Seroczynski, a member of the freshman class, is an avid fisherman. Many of us are fishermen, but when it comes down to the skill and accuracy with a casting, spinning or fly rod, there are few who can top John.

On three occasions John has captured the National Casting Championship. The first time he accomplished this feat was in Columbus, Ohio at the age of 15. At this National Championship Tournament, he set a United States record by casting a perfect 100 score with a fly rod. At this tourney he won five trophies. The following year the tournament shifted to Detroit, Michigan and so did John. Here he did even better, bringing home twelve trophies, representing several different events and championships. The third occasion was the National Indoor Tournament held in McCormick Place during the 1962 National Boat Show. Here he did it again, winning a huge gold cup and the first Indoor National Championship tourney ever held.

These tournaments are held to test the accuracy of the contestants as is the case in archery or skeet shooting. In this case the targets are floating, eighteen inches in diameter, and as far as 95 feet away.

In the past three or four years John and his three brothers have won 106 trophies. These represent such championships as the Indiana State, Illinois State, the Midwest, the Great Lakes, and many more. On September 19, 1962 John and his brothers won the All American Team Title.

In the words of his brother, Phil Seroczynski "John is, without a doubt, a Reel Champion".

Never before was it necessary to fight over a certain desk in a classroom. The smoke is so thick in the first-floor lounge that it could be cut with a knife.

In order to accommodate all of these "new faces," there was an increase in faculty members and classroom facilities.

Compared to the 1961-62 semester, the enrollment has increased by one-third from 663 to 897 students. This exemplifies the success of the wide-scale advertising campaign that St. Joseph's College initiated this summer. Not only were the number of students increased, but also the number of credit hours. The 1961-62 semester boasted 5,805 credit hours while the 1962-63 semester added 2,187 to that number making a grand total of 7,992 credit hours.

The bulk of the student body is comprised of part-time students who number 530 while the full-time students number 367. The senior class has more than tripled in size while the freshman, sophomore, and junior classes have enlarged gradually. Of course, the school also has married people in attendance. We have in our midst this semester 266 married students while the 1961-62 semester had 228 of these students.

The usual question, "Do the women outnumber the men?" arises whenever enrollment is mentioned. This is still a problem for both the part-time and full-time students, because the women outnumber the men by 1.08:1. This problem, however, will probably never be solved.

Perhaps another unsolvable problem will be where to put all of these "new faces."

Freshmen Await Election Results

Starting Monday of this week, the freshman class is electing its new class officers. The election is taking place in the office of the Dean of Students. All students attending night classes were able to vote on October 1, 2, and 3 from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Voting for the full time freshmen will be from 9 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. today and tomorrow. Speeches by the candidates will be given in room 205 from 11:30 to 12:30. All students are invited to attend. The final tabulations will take place on Friday, October 5 at 7:30 p.m.

Candidates running in the election at this time are Jerome Bercik, for president; Robert E. Harris, for vice-president; Richard J. Wirtes, and Fran Cando, for secretary, and Mike Berilla, and Gene Keil for treasurer.

Some of the candidates offered their platforms:

Jerome Bercik: "I plan to establish class unity for all freshmen. I will try to carry out my campaign slogan, 'True Representation for Freshmen.' If someone makes a suggestion, I will try my best to carry it through and help to make the class of '66 the best freshman class in the history of St. Joseph's."

Mike Berilla: "I am going to participate in the discussion of ideas and make more money for the freshmen instead of losing money."

Robert Harris: "I hope to organize the class of 1966 as the best organized class that St. Joseph's College ever had. To work intensely with the president and to offer assistance in whatever we plan to do. I believe that it would make the presidency a lot easier if you brought your ideas to the vice-president. I will see that these ideas go straight forward and will be considered to the utmost. I believe I am well qualified to hold the job of vice-president at St. Joe's because during my sophomore year in high school I was vice-president of Student Council and in my junior year I was president of the Student Council. I say to all freshmen to come out and vote for your choice in the election."

Thoughts . . .

by Thomas G. Moser

As we draw near to the first Tuesday of November, it's a good idea to reconsider and evaluate our own political thinking, and that of the candidates who are running for public office. The question of whether a man is a liberal or a conservative, a conservative liberal or a liberal conservative—a big argument in political circles today—is one which reminds me of a person who goes about "fighting windmills." Much more important is it for us to consider what a politician really is, and whether the present candidates are politicians.

What is a politician? Barry Goldwater, in The Conscience of a Conservative, says that a politician is one who "understands the nature of man through the wisdom and experience of history." Although other sciences rightly claim to know about the nature of man, politics and those who practice it must know about man and must consider each individual, not just masses and forces.

If the candidate for office does not believe in this, I wonder how he can honestly run. I wonder how one can honestly vote for such a person.

Politics leads us into its sister science, economics. Economics immediately brings us into conflict with different types of systems: Marxian socialism, fascism, Leninism, capitalism. Today, one hears and reads a great deal about why capitalism is the only philosophically founded economic system which can be considered correct. The Christian Church has given many arguments why one can't believe in such philosophically founded systems as Marxian socialism and others, yet many people reduce these statements merely to the Church's anti-atheistic view. Yet, regardless of whether one is a Christian, a Buddhist, a Moslem, an agnostic or an atheist, if one believes that each man is an individual, not just a part of the great mass, then one can believe only in an economic system whole "philosophy takes into account the essential differences between men, and accordingly make provision for developing the different potentialities of each man." It remains to be proven, to me, whether Marxian socialism, Leninism, or fascism is based upon such a philosophy.

"No man is an island, entire of itself. Every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main." Everything we do has a bearing on the past, present, and future. What we do may not seem like much, but Caesars, Alexanders, Hitlers, and Kennedys are made up of "little people" who give power to these men. "Little people" are as important as the great rulers of the world. We all have souls; we all have to face a judgment in eternity; and if anyone objects to my first two statements, they can't disagree that we'll all occupy the same type of six by six box. "Little people" get things done in this world.

SHAVINGS doesn't care who you vote for, BUT WE DO CARE WHETHER OR NOT YOU VOTE!

Thornton Wilder, in Our Town, has the local minister tell us our address: St. Joseph's College Calumet Center, East Chicago, in the State of Indiana "the eastern portion of the United States, the United States of America, the northern portion of the Western Hemisphere, the World, the Solar System, the Universe, the Galaxy, in space, in time, in the Mind of God"—food for thinking.

This month's orchids go to the freshman class. This group has, despite the continual belligerence of upperclassmen, shown an enthusiasm and originality which has surprised and delighted this writer. It's about time someone opened the window and let in some fresh air.

Important phrase for the week:

Bong, bong, bong goes the bell.
(What bell?)

WHO'S IN THE CASKET? Everyone can see the writing on the casket saying the upperclassmen are those going to be buried, but by the end of the evening's activities at the hayride, it was debatable just who was buried. Those gathered around the casket are Bob Johnson, lower, with Paul Lyne, Mike Parker (he's not the dummy in the casket!) and Mike Spiccia.

Test Your Wind

Do you have enough wind to blow out a paper match held three inches from your mouth? Hold the match wide and—blow. Don't purse lips. That's cheating.

If you can't blow out the flame, your maximal breathing capacity is not up to the standard. Better have your lungs tested. Dr. C. Robert Olsen, of the Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation here, made the point.

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

Studying Communism Is One of Perez's Hobbies

"Saint Joseph's Calumet Center has a very friendly atmosphere and an opportunity for everyone to participate in Student Union affairs. The student also has a close relationship with the professors. This enables him to be aware of the professors' abilities as a man as well as those of a teacher. Although we may lack campus facilities, it seems that we are definitely maintaining a campus atmosphere."

These are the words of Julian Perez, treasurer of the Student Council. Having attended St. Joseph's College in Bensenville for two years, he is well qualified in comparing Center life to campus life.

As a senior, Julian plans to graduate this June with a degree in accounting. After graduation, he plans to work towards a master's degree in either accounting or economics at Northwestern University.

After this, it will probably be the military service for a few years, he speculated.

Julian Perez

Outside interests are many as far as Julian is concerned. He likes to read books dealing with Communism. He feels this is necessary because this sort of material helps a person realize dangers that face the western world. Julian also enjoys playing tennis, and participating in the inevitable entertainment of all college men—dating girls.

Julian comes from a large family consisting of five sisters and two brothers. One of his brothers is attending San Diego University on a basketball scholarship.

When asked what his main goal in life was Julian answered, "being able to learn to the best of my ability an understanding of man and society."

In conclusion, Julian answered this question. What is your idea of the average college student? "He is an individual studying mainly for a position of status in our society today. He is a person who overlooks

STUDENT COUNCIL CORNER

by Leon G. Kmice, Night School Representative

Student Council President Edward C. Latek said in his article in the last Student Council Corner, "Participate in the activities the Student Council sponsors, and call upon it to represent you aptly and correctly with the administration."

This is an urgent plea to fellow night students. There are many activities held at Saint Joseph's College Calumet Center that a great percentage of us can take advantage of, but yet do not. We realize that many of us have family responsibilities and jobs, but there are those who don't have these responsibilities. This doesn't mean with these family responsibilities we cannot participate. Maybe the wife would enjoy getting out to see a college football game. As students, we can participate in special ticket rates. This is why we are charged Student Council fees.

Some of the coming activities that are on the Activity Calendar this year are as follow:

- Oct. 20—Beach Party. More news about this event at a later date.
- Oct. 31—Halloween Dance. This is a big one. All Saints Day, Nov. 1, no school the following day. It's a costume affair, with lots of fun for everyone.
- Nov. 21—Annual Lake County Club Thanksgiving Day Dance. This is a big blowout, and I hear there's liquid refreshment at this dance for those over 21.

These are just a few of the activities that we should take full advantage of. So come and join in on the fun.

It is possible that there has been a lack of communication between day and evening classes in the past but I hope to eliminate this problem by an occasional article in SHAVINGS. Many notices about coming activities can be found on the bulletin board near the main entrance way.

Letters to Editor

Dear Editor;

It is apparent that some upperclassmen didn't appreciate the freshman orientation program. Maybe it would be better to look behind the orientation program to the hard work that was performed by the Student Council and the Sophomore Class. As freshman we realize and are thankful for the things that were done to help acquaint us with life at St. Joe's. We also realize the hard work spent by all concerned in trying to obtain beanies and cap and gowns. To us the orientation program provided both a means of enjoyment and an education as to what was expected of us as freshman. On behalf of all freshmen we would like to deeply thank all upperclassmen for their concern in getting the class of '66 off to a good start.

Jerry Bercik
Robert Harris
Robert Johnson
Gene Kiel

Dear Editor;

"The initiation was inconclusive . . . very inferior . . . we missed the boat . . . pretty bad." This is just a sampling of certain student opinions regarding the freshmen initiation. It is contended by these students that orientation was "lousy."

I would like to ask a few questions of these people: Do you who complain have any idea of the work and money involved in staging an orientation? Plans for this, the first orientation, were in the making as early as June and July. This was the "pet project" of the Student Council through the summer. They had no precedent, as such, on which to build the program. Those involved in the project started completely from scratch.

Did you expect a "campus" orientation? If this is what you are looking for, you're looking in the wrong place. This is not a campus. We are the Calumet Center. As such, there can be no basis for comparison.

Do you realize that some phase of the orientation was in progress at all times during the first few weeks of school? There was much more involved than merely beanies. Or didn't some of you take the time to notice? Did you attend the Student Union meeting? Did you exercise your right to decide, when the vote was taken at the meeting, what further activities you wanted?

The Roving Reporter reported that only one freshman gave his opinion and that opinion was favorable. Those who did not like it were upperclassmen who didn't participate and, consequently, had no knowledge of orientation because they were not even there. (By the way, how many of you who complained attended the football game and pizza party that was sponsored by the Student Council last weekend?)

An upperclassman who had a ball,
Ilona Werner

Dear Editor;

There are several things I would like to bring to the student's attention.

Father Joseph Pusater, assistant at Immaculate Conception, has graciously volunteered to hear confessions every day fifteen minutes before the noonday mass except on the First Friday of each month.

MANY TOOK ADVANTAGE of the student trip to Valparaiso University to see the Pumas vie the Vikings. All who went enjoyed the trip, especially St. Joe's defeat Valpo 13-6.

The M. Bell Jewelers of East Chicago donated the wall clock now adorning the wall in the downstairs lounge. Many thanks are extended to them for their wonderful donation.

Fr. Joseph Smolar,
Dean of Students

Dear Editor;

In behalf of the hayride on September 15, the junior class officers would like to thank the Feddeler family who was kind enough to allow us to use their facilities for this event and we give our apologies for the inconveniences caused them.

We would also like to thank all those who gave of their time and effort to help us and especially those freshmen who made posters, sold tickets, planned the bonfire activities, and worked on the clean-up committee.

Last but not least our hands go out to Father Smolar, Dean of Students, who helped us plan the hayride, and Mr. Lazur, Assistant Professor in sociology, who chaperoned.

This event could not have been a success without the help and cooperation of these people.

Thank you all,
Jim Kick, President
Bill O'Malley, Vice-President
Mary Stokes, Secretary
John Dvorske, Treasurer

Study Demands Long Week

Those 25-hour, or 30-hour, or even 40-hour work weeks are not for today's college student.

A staggering work week of 60 to 70 hours is suggested by Dr. Frank Oppenheimer, noted physicist at the University of Colorado, as a "general basis for doing merely acceptable work in college."

"Students have no notion of how much work they need to do", Oppenheimer said.

For young people approaching college, Oppenheimer proposes a packaged work week for the average student carrying a classroom work load of 15 hours per week.

Sixty hours of classroom and studying, 10 hours spent in reading not required by classes, 5 hours devoted to eating and talking, and 56 hours sleeping.

Should a student want to regulate his college life on a daily basis, here's Oppenheimer's suggestion:

Monday through Friday — 16 hours in class including laboratory work and quiz sessions, seven hours devoted to study, 90 minutes to reading, three and a half hours to eating and talking and eight hours to sleeping. Saturday — one hour reading, three hours eating and talking, eight hours sleeping and eleven hours uncommitted.

Sunday — one hour and a half reading, three hours and a half eating and talking, five hours studying, eight hours sleeping and six hours uncommitted.

All-Weather Coats Top Wardrobe Items

The U.S. Weather Bureau reports that Boston has 125 days of rain as yearly average; Cleveland, 154 days; Dallas, about 82 days; sunny days, 13 days and Tampa, about 114 days of rain—which clearly proves that East or West—North or South, the forecast for Fall is RAIN. And, of course, there's snow, sleet and hail a-coming too in most parts of the country.

Which means that whether it rains or not, the weather coat is sure to be an important part of every woman's wardrobe.

This fall, the collection of weather coats is more diversified, classic and extremely versatile.

Women love their casual look, light weight and adaptability. Weather coats look as smart over dresses as they do over shorts and skirts. They are as good looking for wear to the supermarket as they are for career-women wardrobes.

Weather coats are "divided" into two major groups—with one being all-weather, rain or shine coat, and the other group—the practical car and storm coat.

In styling, the newer coats are narrow in silhouetted, often with a modified swing in the back. Whether with raglan set-in sleeve styles, shoulder lines look softer and have neat sloping lines to create width.

New coats tend away from the exaggerated widths or extreme slim lines of past seasons. Essentially, these new coats are classically simple.

The new coat styles are extremely fabric conscious and they look new and extremely smart in a variety of iridescent menswear plaids, tackle twills, poplins and corduroys.

Soft tones color the scene, especially in warm brown hues, pale beiges, taupes and other panel neutrals. There are still a lot of smart styles in blacks and black with brown often combine in plaids and checked fabrics. Soft greens, bright reds and some olives are favorite colors.

Flattering collars of pile, raccoon, black fox and alpaca are handsome fashion trims.

PETITION TO COUNCIL

Suffragette Asks Church to Grant Women Equality

A Swedish woman lawyer is seeking Vatican Council action by which women would have equality with men in the church.

Dr. Gertrud Heinzelmann, attorney who is president of the Association for Woman Suffrage in this largest of Swiss Cantons, earlier addressed to the preparatory bodies of the Ecumenical Council a "complaint and at the same time indictment from half the human race—feminine sex."

The text of the 9,000 word petition is now been published in Die Staatsbürgerin, official organ of suffragette organizations in the Can-tons of Zurich, St. Gall, Schaffhausen and Winterthur. Switzerland still denies women the right to vote, except in a few local political bodies.

Dr. Heinzelmann charges in her petition that the teaching of the Church in regard to woman, being largely and authoritatively based on writings of St. Thomas Aquinas, no longer is in keeping with the insights gained into woman's true nature by modern science, both psychologically and biologically.

"Relevant conclusions reached by St. Thomas," says the doctor, "constitute a severe insult to woman's dignity inasmuch as they start from a premise that she is a creature inferior to man and one designed by God to be entirely subservient to him."

spent much of his life in and around the Chicago area. Born in Chicago, he received his elementary education at St. Clara's in Chicago, St. Leonard's in Berwyn, and St. Mary's in Riverside. His high school years were spent at St. Ignatius in Chicago. In 1934, he entered Loyola, where he received his collegiate education. Dr. Fleming's graduate work was completed in Washington, D.C., at Catholic University.

Dr. Fleming holds three degrees. He earned an A.B. in history at Loyola, and a M.A. and Ph.D. in history at Catholic University in Washington, D.C.

Before being appointed to the St. Joseph staff this year, Dr. Fleming was editor for World Book Encyclopedia. Previous to this he had been an editor of textbooks for Follett Publishing Company and a part-time lecturer at Loyola.

Dr. Fleming is also active in his community. He was president of the St. Laurence Community Organization, a neighborhood conservation group. He has also been a member of the lay executive board of the Cana Conference of Chicago.

The American Historical Society admitted Dr. Fleming in 1938. He was also admitted to the American Catholic Historical Society at this time.

What does Dr. Fleming think of St. Joseph's? In an interview he stated that he is very impressed by the friendliness of both the students and the faculty. Another aspect of the student body which greatly impresses him is the seriousness with which the students undertake their work. Dr. Fleming pointed out that a realization of the obligations of a student is important. A student must work and work hard if he expects to get ahead.

RECENT ADDITION to SHAVINGS is photographer Jim Welbourne. Having been head photographer for Bishop Noll High School's newspaper, Jim's addition to the staff should prove to be a valuable asset.

Seymour Doolittle

Hi gang! Well I'm back again from the night rides of Seymour Doolittle. While riding I found out some interesting things.

Friday September 21, we had a pep rally under the supervision of Mr. Lazur, Assistant Professor of sociology. Along with him were energetic cheerleaders. The only thing wrong is all the leaders did was sit on the couch and look cute.

Speaking of being cute here is a cute little notice I picked up along the way. Beware all students, for the school has the notorious John "Big Spender" Dvorske in its midst.

Since we are on the topic of caution keep a close eye on Bob Sidock. For some reason this boy likes to use alias names. One day he's Pedro, the next he claims to be his non-existent twin brother Tom. Who are you hiding from Bob?

I understand that Pat Sampias and Barbara Zaranka are a big attraction in the lounge. There is only one thing wrong. Only Gene Keil and Robert Gaps know the reason. Come on boys let us all know.

Due to my fast speed while riding I was unable to catch all the details of the following conversations. Can anyone explain the following?

Paul Lyons' car is held together by a garter.

Jeanette Minchuk hates her middle name and wants to change it to "Bernice".

Denny Mautsiak's ideal is Perry Mason.

David Giometti is adding his Math 5 book to the cache in his pyramid.

Mike Parker's version of the Our Father begins, "We give Thee thanks . . ."

Judy Gatewood was "saved" today.

Freshman boys are holding daily revival meetings in the upstairs lounge.

John Paul is writing a book entitled The Inside Story On Pots and Pans.

John Bell can swing first Soprano Mike Spiccia is starting a new fad—cold pizza for breakfast.

Dick Hollits is the new yo-yo champion of Immaculate Conception grade school.

Dan Lowry and Tom Kuchta consider the ideal date playing basketball while Kathie Mullaney and Iona Werner talk over current events.

Well, until next week remember Seymour is watching and listening.

"Be it done unto me, according to Thy word." This quotation is expressed along with the emotions of dismay and reverent acceptance, in the St. Joseph College Calumet Center library Painting of the Week, "The Annunciation." This fourteenth century painting, by Simone Martini, was produced in Italy for the altar of the chapel Sant' Ansano in the Cathedral of Siena.

Simone, sometimes known as di Martino, was an eminent painter of the Sienese school. Sienese painters adopted a pale, blond, slender, small-headed, long-faced physical type figure that looks odd and even unattractive to the newcomer to Sienese painting. Martini added a refined contour of line, utmost grace of expression, and a deep serenity of mood to this masterpiece. He produced several important frescoes and many other prominent altarpieces such as "The Virgin and Child." While living in Assisi he created his greatest fresco, illustrating scenes from the life of St. Martin for the chapel of St. Martin in the Lower Church. He was the leading influence on the development of Sienese paintings of the fourteenth century.

Bernie Zenone

This masterpiece, "The Annunciation," is done in rich gold and brilliant colors to portray the great richness and majesty of the heavenly figures represented here. The Angel Gabriel seems almost alive with flowing cape, and the sparkle of the divine message he is delivering—"Blessed art thou among women." The Blessed Virgin is painted as shy and dismayed at the apparition before her. Simone, however, using the expressionism of this period in art, depicts the beauty and willingness of a human creature, of human frailty, to accept the Will of God.

This reproduction which hangs in the school library foretells the coming joy of the birth of the Messiah. This is truly the meaning expressed in the "Annunciation", "And the Word was made flesh and dwelt amongst us".

More Men Than Women Finish College

The Census Bureau says women go to school longer than men, on the average, but more men complete four years of college.

The Census Bureau said its household-to-house canvas of 1960 showed that the median amount of schooling for women at that time was 10.9 years, compared with 10.3 years for men. However, 4.6 million men had completed college, compared with 3 million women.

Do You Remember?

TWO YEARS AGO:

A new student weekly newspaper began publication. A contest was held, judges were Fathers Martin, Kern, and Smolar. A name was to be chosen for the paper.

St. Joseph's College, Calumet Center, had a booth in the East Chicago "Community Services Fair".

Commerce club held its first meeting. Newly elected officers were Leon Kmiec, president; John Uhles, vice president; Ray Golarz, secretary.

Mr. Donald Brinley became a faculty member at the Calumet Center, after two years on the faculty at St. Joseph's in Bensenville.

ONE YEAR AGO:

Freshman class holds its election of class officers. Winners are: Scott Boyett, president; Tom Keen, vice president; Narcine Sherpetowski, secretary; and Madeliene Frechette, treasurer.

Six hundred sixty-three students enrolled at St. Joseph's Calumet Center.

Candidates for freshman class officers presented a Political Party.

The freshmen and sophomores had a football game at Kosciuszko Park on Oct. 1. The game ended in a 19-19 tie.

Valpo defeated the Pumas 18 to 6 in a Indiana Collegiate Conference Football game.
